LATERAL ASSOCIATE JOINS ARMSTRONG TEASDALE'S KANSAS CITY OFFICE

Armstrong Teasdale, a law firm with offices across the United States and in China, proudly announces the addition of Brian Nye to the firm's Kansas City office. Nye is an associate in the Litigation practice group and primarily handles complex mass tort matters involving a wide range of products, premises and contractor liability claims. He serves as national coordinating counsel and local counsel in the defense of asbestos claims and also works as defense counsel for a Fortune 500 company on general litigation matters.

Nye is the fourth attorney to join Armstrong Teasdale's Kansas City office in 2016.

Prior to joining Armstrong Teasdale, Nye was in private practice at a Chicago firm. Before that, he served as a law clerk to Kansas Supreme Court Chief Justice Lawton R. Nuss. He earned both his J.D. and B.A. in political science from the University of Kansas. He is admitted to practice law in Kansas and Illinois.
